Fingerprints Code of Conduct

FINGERPRINTS

About the Code

The Code applies to all of us working at Fingerprints. It provides guidance on how we are expected to act in accordance with our company values as well as in compliance with all applicable legal and regulatory requirements. Our Code sets the minimum requirements. If provisions in local, national, or international laws, regulations, or rules take a more stringent position on the matters of the Code, those shall be observed and complied with. In cases of conflict between the Code and mandatory local legal and regulatory requirements, such mandatory local legal and regulatory requirements shall prevail.

All employees at Fingerprints worldwide as well as consultants, representatives, and others working for Fingerprints (hereinafter "you" or "Fingerprint employees") are expected to acknowledge and follow the Code.

Failure to follow the principles outlined in our Code will be taken seriously and could result in disciplinary action, ranging up to and including dismissal. In the case of a non-employee it could result in contractual remedies including termination of the contract.

We expect of our suppliers to also act in the spirit of the Code and our company values. In a separate Supplier Code of Conduct, we outline our specific requirements for suppliers. All Fingerprint employees involved in contracting suppliers of products and services are expected to work actively to ensure supplier compliance with the Supplier Code of Conduct.

The original language of the Code is English. If translated into other languages, the English version shall prevail.

Applying the Code

If you are a manager at Fingerprints, you have a particular responsibility, to lead by example and to ensure that the people in your team are provided with the training necessary to understand the Code. You are also expected to encourage a continuing dialogue about the Code and how it applies to everyday situations and decisions.

All employees are required to know and follow the Code and stay updated with any changes to the Code. The Code of Conduct is a mandatory element of our introduction programs for new employees in our HR (Human Resources) system.

In addition to following the Code we expect you to comply with all applicable laws and regulations, and there is a zero tolerance to violations of the law. In some cases, it may be difficult to know whether a particular matter is consistent or not with applicable laws and regulations or the Code. We encourage you, if there is any doubt, to consult with your manager or otherwise raise the matter in accordance with the Speak-Up process.

Our Code is the core document of our governance structure. The Code is supported by policies, other steering documents, and procedures which in further detail stipulates our company requirements and rules.

The Employee is obliged to, at all times, be informed of the Company's policies and other applicable regulations and to carefully follow what is set forth in such policies and regulations at all times.

If you have any questions about the content of the Code or of your responsibilities, please reach out to your manager, the Human Resources department, or Legal Affairs.

The principles

Our Code reflects the areas identified as vital for building trust and the continued success of our Company.

1. Trusted and transparent business conduct

Our success is built upon trust and transparency. To that end we must make business decisions that are in the interest of our company and its shareholders while being consistent with the values of other stakeholders.

It is our responsibility as a company to operate, and be perceived to operate, as a good corporate citizen.

Keeping accurate and correct records

As a company, we are required to keep accurate financial records and ensure that the correct financial information is provided in all financial statements. Records related to human resources, health & safety, quality-, security- and environmental management, agreements, and other third-party documents should be treated with the same respect.

- We maintain well-managed and accurate records consistent with all applicable legal requirements and industry standards. This applies to all aspects of our business.
- We prepare our financial records in a timely manner, they are fact-based and fairly represent our business dealings.
- We ensure that we fulfil the obligations we have as a listed company.
- We maintain a system of internal control of the business record's accuracy.
- We apply and respect a system of segregation of duties and processes for approval and authorization
"Conflicting duties and areas of responsibility shall be segregated to reduce opportunities for authorized or unintentional modification or misuse of the organization's assets." (ISO27001:2017 A.6.1.2)

Protecting company assets

Company assets include tangible assets, such as real estate, materials and products and personal equipment, as well as intangible assets, such as brands, patents and intellectual property rights and other sensitive information. We expect all Fingerprints employees to be mindful in the use of company assets, protecting them from damage, loss, undue dissemination, or criminal acts.

- We comply with internal controls designed to safeguard and protect our assets.
- We only use assets for business purposes unless otherwise authorized by appropriate management.
- We defend and enforce our intellectual property rights against infringements by any unauthorized third parties.
- We never use company assets for personal gain or for illegal activities.

Communicating responsibly

Communication is important when building a strong brand and managing our reputation. Such communication can be verbal and written, internal and external, via channels such as the internet, printed publications, and other media. It also includes social media such as blogs, internet forums, social networking sites, content communities and instant messaging.

Speaking on behalf of Fingerprints through such channels is limited to authorized individuals and any statements must be approved for release to the public.

FINGERPRINTS

- We have officially designated spokespersons to communicate publicly on behalf of our company in order to ensure professional, consistent, legally compliant, and honest responses to requests from the media, analysts, and investors.
- We always make sure that information is accurate and not misleading.
- We also act carefully and respectfully when communicating about Fingerprints as we communicate during our work as well as outside of work.

Safeguarding sensitive information

As a company we handle information with care. This includes, but is not limited to, our own business sensitive information, insider information, client related information, personal information of employees and other people with whom we interact. Since our company's shares are listed there are certain insider trading restrictions to be aware of.

- We handle information about our company, our clients and other related parties with caution and take measures needed to ensure protection of business-critical information.
- We are committed to the protection of personal information of our employees and stakeholders with whom we engage.
- We train our employees to ensure that they are knowledgeable regarding applicable restrictions of trade in shares and other financial instruments
- We make sure that employees and contractors receive appropriate security awareness training and updates in policies and procedures
- We follow Fingerprints procedures on information classification

Respecting competition laws

Competition is a key driver for innovation and efficiency in the markets where we operate. Competition and antitrust laws prohibit anti-competitive agreements, abuse of market power and anti-competitive mergers and acquisitions.

- We respect competition laws in all the markets in which we are active.
- We train our employees to ensure that they are knowledgeable regarding competition law, enabling and supporting them in identifying situations where competition law considerations are relevant.

Ensuring responsible trade

Trade regulations cover areas such as rules of origin, customs, classification of goods, customs valuation, export control classification, export license management, restricted party screening, embargo and sanctions, anti-boycott provisions, and conflict mineral regulations.

- We are dedicated to ensuring compliance with all applicable import and export laws and regulations.
- We train our employees to ensure that they are knowledgeable regarding responsible trade.
- We work actively to ensure a supply chain free of conflict minerals.

Anti-bribery and anti-corruption

We have zero tolerance of bribery and corruption. Bribery means offering, giving, receiving, or soliciting of something of value for the purpose of influencing the action of an official or private company as they perform their duties. Corruption means abuse of entrusted power for private gain, which could include conflicts of interest, embezzlement, kickbacks, extortion, or nepotism.

FINGERPRINTS

- We are committed to conducting business with high integrity which does not involve any forms of bribery and corruption.
- We do not directly, or through third-parties acting on our behalf, pay or offer to pay bribes.
- We do not offer or accept gifts that will improperly influence our business decisions or those of our partners.
- We are committed to and comply with all anti-money laundering legislation, including reporting obligations.

2. Smarter and safer solutions

We are committed to providing our customers with products that meet or exceed their expectations. We continue to develop new cutting-edge products and services, by being proactive in the development of our employees and continue to attract and retain talented employees.

High quality services and products

- We are committed to delivering high quality products and services that are safe, dependable, and meet legal and regulatory requirements.
- We proactively work with continued learning and development of our skills, to ensure that we are in the forefront of our business sector.

End-user in mind

Aiming for a leading position in our industry, we contribute to setting high standards for biometric identification, ensuring user friendliness and protection of user integrity in the use of our products.

- We have the experience, convenience, and integrity of the individual end-users in mind when developing biometric solutions.
- We work to avoid any potential negative environmental or health impacts during the use of our products.

3. Environmental protection and resource efficiency

Environmental responsibility means operating our business and providing products and services in a way that minimizes environmental impact and contributes to a more sustainable future. We must equip ourselves with the competence and tools necessary to address the environmental challenges in our industry and continuously minimize any negative impacts we may have. We comply with all environmental legislation and the requirements of any voluntary initiatives which we have joined

Resource efficiency and handling of waste

We continue to improve the design of our products and our processes so that energy, natural resources, and raw materials are used efficiently, and waste and residual products are minimized.

- We have the environmental consequences in mind when working with the design of our products and processes and evaluate alternatives, considering the life cycle perspective.
- We dispose of waste to recycling where available and will ensure that it is made possible at our own locations.
- We clearly communicate environmental requirements to our suppliers and follow-up on their performance and will select those suppliers who demonstrate commitment to environmental protection.

FINGERPRINTS

Precautionary approach

- We work to avoid materials and methods posing environmental and health risks when suitable alternatives are available.

4. Respecting and rewarding people

As Fingerprint employees we are expected to respect each other, ensure that everyone is given the same opportunity to perform at their best and ensure that everyone is fairly rewarded for their efforts and achievements. We provide our employees with a safe, health-promoting, and inclusive workplace. We expect that we show the same respect and protect the rights of the people working for suppliers, clients, and any others with whom we do business or else engage.

A diverse inclusive, equal, and non-discriminating workplace

All our employees shall have equal opportunities based on competencies, experience, and performance regardless of gender, race, religion, age, disability, sexual orientation, nationality, political opinion, social background, or ethnic origin.

- We treat each other with respect in the workplace. Discrimination, physical, sexual, or verbal harassment, or threats are not tolerated.
- We ensure that the working conditions within the Company are equally suitable for all employees
- We facilitate for employees to combine work and parenthood
- We actively promote diversity and gender equality through our recruitment processes, our career development plans and follow-up of employee satisfaction.

Health and Safety

Safety is prioritized in all aspects of us performing our work, at our offices and during our business travels.

- We work with preventative measures to minimize any workplace accidents or other forms of occupational health risks, including diligent reporting of accidents and incidents (near accidents).
- We ensure that that our offices have safe escape routes and that the appropriate safety equipment is available where needed.

Respecting human rights and labour rights

As a company we work to ensure that we are not involved in any human rights abuses and that we respect international labour rights.

- We respect our employees' rights to freedom of association and collective bargaining.
- We do not force anyone to work more than the limits on regular and overtime hours allowed by the law of the country in which they are employed. Overtime shall be compensated in accordance with legal requirements.
- We ensure that all employees have contracts specifying the terms of employment.
- We have zero tolerance for any form of child labour, forced or compulsory labour.
- We communicate to our suppliers that we expect of them to respect human rights and labour rights, we will follow-up on their performance and select those suppliers showing commitment to the protection of human and labour rights.

Reporting of violations and concerns

You may come across a situation that appears to be inconsistent with our company values as set out in the Code, our policies, or the law. In such event we expect you to bring your concern to the company's attention, either by speaking directly to your manager or, if you do not feel comfortable going to your manager, you can use our "Speak-Up" system. You are to report any conduct believed, in good faith, to be a violation of laws or the other expectations on conduct defined by this Code of Conduct.

All reports that are received will be evaluated and investigated if necessary. Relevant case details that you provide will be duly recorded. We will do our utmost to keep the information you provide confidential. If local laws permit, you may remain anonymous; however, if you wish to report a concern you are strongly encouraged to identify yourself to help facilitate an investigation. Your privacy and integrity are of foremost importance. As outlined in our Speak-Up policy, no retaliation is taken against an employee or any other person who, in good faith, voices their concern regarding a matter related to this Code of Conduct.

Suppliers

As a supplier to Fingerprints or any of our subsidiaries you are expected to act in the spirit of this Code. For suppliers we also have a specific supplier Code of Conduct.

Failure to follow the principles outlined in our Code or any company policy will be taken seriously and could result in disciplinary process. The disciplinary process will involve an initial investigation followed by appropriate action based on the severity and nature of the violation. Actions may include verbal or written warnings, suspension, or termination of employment. A process will be handled in accordance with applicable labor laws. In the case of a non-employee it could result in contractual remedies including termination of the contract.
